“Now is the time for dialogue. Investing in the next generation of dialogue leaders is the best way to fight forces fueling polarisation and extremism.”

Wided Bouchamaoui
Winner of the Nobel Peace Prize with the Tunisian “Dialogue Quartet” and confirmed speaker at MED FORUM 2016

PERFORMANCE

HOME, the acclaimed dance performance on identity by the ŻfinMalta Dance Ensemble, will mark the inauguration of MED FORUM 2016. The performance, which is organised in partnership with Arts Council Malta, also represents an artistic bridge between the Med Forum and the preceding World Summit of Arts and Culture in Valletta, which has mobility as a central theme. Following “HOME”, delegates will be invited to the official welcome reception as a first of many MED FORUM networking opportunities aimed at making lasting connections.
Moving Beyond the Extremist Narrative: Youth on the frontline

REPUBLIC HALL

The plenary will focus on the potential of the next generation of intercultural leaders to create alternative narratives to extremist discourses. It is essential to challenge widely held assumptions about radicalisation, and to shift the focus on fighting extremism to an alternative, inclusive narrative built on the majority of citizens to the north and south of the Mediterranean and the Youth sector. The discussion will be draw on the preliminary findings of the new “ALF Intercultural Trends Report” with a focus on the perception of youth and the role of media on intercultural relations. The session will also focus on operationalising at a Euro-Med level recently adopted: the UN Resolution 2250, the first ever thematic resolution on Youth, Peace and Security, and the European international cultural relations strategy developed in related to the new EU Neighborhood Policy.

PANELISTS

Irina Bokova
Director-General of UNESCO

Monica Maggioni
Vice-President of the European Broadcasting Union and President of RAI Television

MODERATOR

Shada Islam
Director of Geopolitics, Friends of Europe
“The EU will support the second phase of the Young Arab Voices programme, now expanded to cover the Euro-Mediterranean region, to deepen the dialogue between young leaders and civil society representatives.”

Federica Mogherini, EU High Representative and Vice-President of the European Commission, “Towards an EU strategy for international cultural relations”

YOUNG MEDITERRANEAN VOICES is primed to become the widest, most established and visible regional youth network connecting civil society, education institutions and policy-makers across the MENA region and Europe

YOUTH AND CIVIL SOCIETY AT THE HEART OF THE NEW EU GLOBAL STRATEGY

Dr Nicholas Westcott
Managing Director of the European External Action Service for the Middle East and North Africa
The strategic debates sessions of Forum Day 1 will focus on priority areas of strategic actions aiming at defining the next decade of intercultural dialogue. The sessions are built on the Forum strategic pillars.

Shifting focus to Intercultural Cities

TEMU ZAMMIT HALL

Cities are critical players for intercultural dialogue and cultural diplomacy. Against a backdrop of unprecedented mobility, the future intercultural cities will be potential dialogue incubators and engines of socio-cultural integration and innovation. The session will explore how to embed intercultural practice through existing regional networks of cities and local authorities, and to introduce a new award and recognition for Med Cities for Dialogue.

Panelists

- Lina Liakou, Deputy Mayor of Thessaloniki
- Nabila Hamza, CIVICUS - Board of Directors

Rethinking Learning

MICHELL ANGELO HALL

Embedding a values-based education is key to the long-term strategy of empowering a new generation of dialogue players. The session will expose new evidence on transferable life skills and intercultural competences, with a focus on how to embed an intercultural curricula in formal and non-formal education bodies across the Mediterranean. There will also be a dimension on introducing and promoting accreditation for intercultural capabilities.

Panelists

- Joe Borg, Chairman of MEDAC and former EU Commissioner
- Nayla Tabbara, Vice-Chairman of Adyan Foundation
- Rui Gomes, Council of Europe

How to encourage the formal education sectors in the Euro-Med region to incorporate intercultural citizenship learning into their education programmes

Which education initiatives (in the formal and non-formal education sector) can be most effective to prepare young people to be able to tackle the current socio-cultural challenges in their societies?

Which kind of intercultural learning mechanisms should the ALF focus to reinforce the shared values, to address misperceptions, and to prevent radicalisation and extremism?
The Euro-Mediterranean region has a historic opportunity to fuel the largest ever growth in people-to-people exchanges in the region by increasing the opportunities of youth who have a meaningful cross-cultural experience and by supporting exchanges between civil society. The session will explore the constitution of a collaborative CSO exchange platform in the region and how expand the impact of exchange through scaling-up face-to-face encounters and maximising virtual education exchange.

MODYATOR

Waidehi Gilbert-Gokhale, President of Soleya

PANELISTS

Dalia Khalil, founder of the Egyptian Association for Educational Resources (E-ERA)

Bernard Abrignani, Project Director of the Regional Capacity Building and Support Unit for EuroMed Youth - Coordinator SALTO Youth

Serene Huleilah, Safar Fund

Towards Exchange 3.0

VASSALLI HALL

Emerging civil society practice across the Mediterranean highlights the potential of the development of social enterprises and the increase support to the creative economy in the region. These initiatives are becoming channels of social innovation, potential for opening up new spaces of civic participation for youth and offer new pathways for socio cultural impact. The session will define main euro med cooperative actions in the field of the social and innovative enterprise underlining the intercultural component as an asset.

MODYATOR

Alison Coburn, CEO of Common Purpose International

PANELISTS

Mourad Ezzine, Manager of Centre for Mediterranean Integration

Amina Abodoma, Programme Manager, Teatro Eskandria and I-Act

John O’Shea, Founder of GOAL

Unlocking Social Creative Enterprise

DAVID BRUCE HALL

Which priority areas can be defined to embed a culture of creative social enterprise and develop entrepreneurial skills supporting the development of social enterprise amongst youth?

Which initiatives in the field of social and innovative entrepreneurship can be promoted underlining the intercultural component as an asset?

How can the ALF support the development of a social enterprise network that provide a spaces for intercultural dialogue between youth of both sides of the region?
These “Networking Sessions” of the MED FORUM 2016 will follow the “Strategic Debates” on the morning of Forum Day One. The main aim of these sessions is to provide a platform for Forum partners and delegates to scale-up good practice and projects in the framework of the Anna Lindh Foundation’s intercultural dialogue strategy and focus on transforming the generated “thinking” into concrete practice.

The outputs of the sessions will be: newly facilitated partnerships in the framework of the Forum strategic pillars; strategies for scaling-up existing good practices at a sub-regional or multi-country level; shared analysis and consensus around top-down/bottom-up approaches to impact, reach and sustainability of intercultural actions; define a Toolbox for intercultural practice to support the implementation of intercultural actions in the region.

The “Networking Sessions” are characterised by their working methodologies focused on smaller group work to allow enhanced (a) interaction and facilitated networking among delegates; (b) ownership among the main participants and partners of MED FORUM 2016.

Impact
Michel Angelo Grima Hall

The session will begin with a global presentation on theories of change and models of impact from the international development community. A specific focus will be on embedding a results-based monitoring approach at the start of programming cycles, in order visualize impact and define and monitor objectives of social change. The working sessions will expose existing good practice in generating impact on socially marginalized communities.

Reach
Vassalli Hall

Innovative tools and digital media strategies to reach large audiences with a focus, on the one hand, on engaging hard-to-reach communities, and on the other, breaking the ceiling when it comes to opinion-leaders and decision-makers. A presentation will initiate the working group sessions with insights into lessons from multi-audience communication campaigns, network-based solutions, and the role of partnerships.

Sustainability
David Bruce Hall

Sustainability is third pillar of the Foundation’s new strategic programming approach, along with impact and reach. The group sessions will explore new models of development and cooperation, among them public/private partnerships, crowd-funding, income generation and development models embedded in programming, and donor trends and bottom-up approaches to the donor agenda.
Cities

The premise has been established that cities are central players for intercultural dialogue and cultural diplomacy, also against a backdrop of unprecedented levels of migration in the region and a refugee crisis. Projects and initiatives to be developed during this session should focus on objectives: to connect existing networks and practices related to the theme intercultural cities; to leverage networks to embed intercultural practice in the policies of cities and local authorities.

Learning

The Med Forum strategic debate on education will build global consensus around a renewed definition of values-based learning focused on preparing citizens with intercultural citizenship competences. Through the Networking working groups, there will be a focus on the rollout of projects and resources with the potential to be embedded in formal and non-formal education institutions, to support learners in acquiring transferable skills such as cultural understanding, debate, critical thinking, enterprise.

Exchange

How to leverage and make more accessible existing mobility schemes, networks and platforms will be a central focus for the projects and initiatives to be advanced through the "Exchange" working sessions. This can include expanding existing innovative practice in cross-cultural exchange among members of CSOs to the north and south of the Mediterranean, and how projects supported through large-scale frameworks such as Erasmus Plus can reach wider audiences of participants.

Enterprise

The networking session on creative and social enterprise would aim to advance projects that are both: (i) effectively building a social enterprise into their programming as a sustainable model of development; and (ii) represent models of innovative practice that can reach new target groups and provide new spaces for civil society participation in the intercultural dialogue agenda. There will also be a focus on raising the visibility of existing resource for social entrepreneurs in the Mediterranean region.
The “Gerardo de Cremona Award” has the objective to contribute to strengthening translation movement between the countries to the north and south of the Mediterranean. This international award will present the winners of the 2016 edition of the Award through a ceremony involving the network of international partners.

Populations on the Move: Leveraging New Opportunities for Dialogue

Against the backdrop of a refugee crisis and with an increasing number of people on the move across the region, main challenges but also strategic opportunities for renewed partnership and intercultural dialogue will be explored during the Plenary debate. The potential for interaction between refugee, migrant and diaspora communities and host communities will be discussed through different perspectives. Furthermore, the discussion will draw on the preliminary findings of the new “ALF Intercultural Trends Report” with a focus on the perception of people from the region about the potential of multi-cultural societies.

STRATEGIC DEBATES
TUESDAY 11:30 - 13:00

CONFERENCE CENTRE HALLS

The strategic debates sessions of Day 2 will focus on central intercultural dialogue actors: youth, women, media practitioners and artistic creators. Each session will define actions to support the role of these actors in the making of the intercultural agenda and through major actions already promoted by the Foundation.

Youth: Moving Public Voices into Policy Action
TEMI ZAMMIT HALL

Young people to the north and south of the Mediterranean are in the first front in the current challenges affecting their societies. Empowering and supporting youth voices to enhance a shared culture of dialogue in the Euro-med region is the main objective of the new Youth Mediterranean Voices. The session will explore the mechanisms to effectively engage young influencers in shaping public affairs and common narratives facing proactive solutions in the region.

Which mechanisms could be adopted at the Euro-Med level empowering youth voices to shape public affairs, influence decision makers and media narratives?
Which initiatives to be promoted to improve young people’s capacities to enhance a culture of dialogue and address issues of common concern in the region and within their community?
Main areas to be prioritized by ALF in the youth programmes to to raise public awareness and to promote the role of dialogue in the face of negative trends impacting on their societies?

Media: Communicating for Cross-Cultural Understanding
MICHEL ANGELO HALL

There are a wide range of measures to be developed to leverage the positive benefit from the media role in shaping public perceptions and attitudes in the Euro-Mediterranean region. The Foundation is aiming to promote an approach based on reaffirming a new partnership with media and civil society and the role of journalists. The session will explore the characteristics for a permanent observatory to monitor the role of media in reporting on cross-cultural issues.

Which mechanisms can be identified to impact on media owners, networks and institutions to promote media policies on cross-cultural reporting?
Which priority actions to support journalists when reporting on cross-cultural issues?
How can the ALF support journalist networks and schools of journalism assume a more central role to cross-cultural reporting?
Women: Breaking Stereotypes, Driving Change

DAVID BRUCE HALL

The status of women on both shores of the Mediterranean still suffers from a lack of recognition and socio-cultural biases, a situation of vulnerability that has been increased in the current context of radicalization. The Foundation is actively monitoring the situation of the perceptions regarding women and stereotypes through the Anna Lindh Report on Intercultural Trends. The session will explore main actions to support the role of women as central agent for dialogue and in developing contra narratives against misperceptions and through inclusive actions mainly amount youth.

MODERATOR

Peter Weiderud, Director of the Swedish Institute

PANELISTS

Delphine Borione, UfM dialogue on Women Empowerment
Maria Hadjipavlou, Member of the Gender Equality Technical Committee
Emad Karim, Arab States Regional Coordinator of Empower Women at UN Women

Artists: Promoting Dialogue through Cultural Partnerships

VASSALLI HALL

Arts and cultural creativity are central vehicles for dialogue in the Euro-Mediterranean. Translation is essential for the circulation of ideas and cultural expressions in the region. Culture is a powerful tool to create connections among people, leverage the diversity within societies for more dialogue and enhanced understanding. The Foundation is supporting the artistic co-productions, cultural exchanges and translation for intercultural dialogue as major tools to highlight innovative and creative platforms bringing diverse citizens together around common goals and the session will explore their further development.

MODERATOR

Toni Attard, Director of Strategy Malta Arts Council

PANELISTS

Yana Genova, Next Page Foundation
Brahim El Mazned, Artistic director of the Timitar Festival
Ferdinand Richard, President of Roberto Cimetta Fund

Which major role for intercultural dialogue in the definition of the renovated EuroMed cultural cooperation strategy (preparation of the next Euro-Mediterranean Ministerial Conference on Culture)?

Which specific areas in terms of Cultural and Artistic cooperation should be prioritized aiming to a positive change in the societies of the region?

Taking into consideration the importance of translation for the circulation of ideas in the region, which intercultural focus should have a fund established to support translation for dialogue?

Strategic Programming Priorities and Partnerships
IN THE CITY OF CULTURE
MONDAY 19:00 - 21:00

rootsROUTES - La Luz del Mar
Cinema, St James Cavalier

The film contains the documentary “Yn dat sykjen sûnder finen” (“In that search without finding”) directed by Pieter Verhoeff. For this film Tsjèbbe Hetting (b. 15th January 1949 and d. 7th March 2013) was followed by Verhoeff for almost two years, which resulted in an enthralling portrait of this blind poet. But the film also contains performances of poems coming from the poetry book ‘Fan oer see en fierder’ (From overseas and further) from the poets hand, written and performed in the Frisian language.

Limbo
Spaces C1 - C4, St James Cavalier

A devised work which explores the notion of migration. This verbatim-style piece is inspired by a number of interviews which recount the stories of people from all over the world who have experienced various forms of migration; a promenade-style experience wherein stories and characters stimulate the creation of music and art throughout the journey of the process and performance itself.

Etnika
Theatre, St James Cavalier

After a long hiatus, Etnika is a six-piece band whose quirky setup is perhaps, somewhat acute: from the oud and biambo (or harp), the Maltese flute and flamenco footwork, to the double bass and, of course, Maltese lullabies – their enchanting melancholy echoes over complex rhythms, as old Maltese instruments find their way into the sizzling current soundscape on a fascinating musical journey of Malta and the Mediterranean.
IN THE CITY OF CULTURE
TUESDAY 16:30 - 18:00

TAKE TO THE STREETS: DIALOGUE IN ACTION
The international delegates will have the opportunity to take the Forum output straight to citizens through an outreach programme organised in partnership with the ALF Civil Society Network and local partners.

YOUTH DEBATE
Youth Village
Building on the successful debate model developed through the Young Arab Voices programme, a debate activity will be organized involving two debating teams including young people from different countries of the Euro-Mediterranean region.

LIVING LIBRARY
Republic Street
A living Library, where books are people and the reading is a conversation! This initiative is designed to build a positive framework for conversations that can challenge stereotypes and prejudices through dialogue.

LAMPEDEUSA
Theatre, St James Cavalier
‘Lampedusa’ follows the story of Stefano, a fisherman whose profession is handed down over a long line of generation. But in the twenty-first century, his job is to pull drowned bodies of migrants out of the Mediterranean.

CAPOEIRA4REFUGEES
Republic Street
Interactive workshop on how to use sports to increase the overall psychosocial wellbeing of young people impacted by conflict, to strengthen the communities by supporting local talented youth to become community change makers.

CONNECT FROM THE HEART
Republic Street
This activity is an expression of the importance to fight hate speech. Participants will be encouraged to approach an unknown person and take a photo making a heart-sign together with their hands. Photos will be posted online instantly.
